The graph shows the relationship between air temperature (°C) and altitude (km) for two conditions: adjusted and not adjusted. The black line represents the adjusted condition, while the dotted line represents the not adjusted condition. The y-axis represents altitude in kilometers, and the x-axis represents air temperature in °C.