I am glad that the authors has revised the manuscript according to the reviewer's comments.

They said that this dataset has been used in some epidemiological studies. Is there any study published? I am interested in it. If possible, they could provide some examples using this dataset, especially those have been published.

We contacted all the researchers to whom we had provided the data. Most of the work undertaken with our data is still in progress, but others are the subject of papers submitted or in the process of being submitted. We have therefore added the following paragraph to the section 5; Data availability:

“Those data have been provided to several research teams with different field of expertise ranging from epidemiology, to environmental economics and atmospheric science. Most of this work is still in progress, but others are the subject of papers submitted or being submitted (Yohan et al., 2020; J. Mink, in prep, 2022; B. Saintilan, 2021, Cantrell and Michoud, submitted, 2022).”
