General comments

"Thank you for considering the points raised in the last version, which are satisfactorily addressed.
Only the relevance of a single model's base year does not strike me as a good reason to limit coverage notably temporarily. That is, if possible, I would applaud if the authors could expand their dataset to the early 2020s.

Lastly, I would improve the layout of tables considerably which are hard to read and formatted unfortunately."

Response: Thank you for the positive comments on our manuscript. In response to the comments, we have added a section 5 entitled " Updated data in the future" where we discuss how the dataset can be updated in the future by users. We have also added a link to the code that was used to generate the data. We have also re-edited the tables to make sure they are correctly presented. We also note that we intend to update the data to the early 2020s and are in the process. We realized that extending the data would require more data compilation which may take more time to complete than earlier envisioned. Thank you again for the comments.
