

Dear Editor,

regarding the Supporting Information, in Section 1.1 we mentioned that the discharge values are expressed in m³/s. In Section 1.4 we inserted an extended version of the tables already reported in the manuscript. These tables were enriched by a new field that contains, for each catchment attribute, the corresponding column number of the Excel file.

We thank you for this suggestion, now the Supporting Information should be more understandable!

We also addressed the comment received from the Editorial Support about the inclusion of a reference of a preprint (Höge et al.). We modified it since the paper has now been accepted for publication in ESSD.

Best regards,

Paola Mazzoglio on behalf of all authors
